EDUCATION BUILT FOR LIFE

MASTER OF EDUCATION: READING

If you are passionate about helping students become successful readers and want a university that is user-friendly and has a variety of options, Upper Iowa University may be your best choice.

Reading is an important part of the Common Core and the Iowa Core, and school districts are seeking teachers who hold endorsements in reading. To be awarded the Master of Education degree with an emphasis in Reading you must earn a minimum of 36 approved graduate credit hours. The M.Ed. in Reading requires a minimum of 12 credits in reading coursework.

READING SPECIALIST ENDORSEMENT AND LITERACY COACH CERTIFICATE

Convenient and User-Friendly

UIU will evaluate your transcript and require those courses or competencies not evident in your previous college coursework. Students may transfer up to 12 graduate credits toward the master's degree and up to 6 credits toward the certificate.

Do you want to earn a Master of Education degree with an emphasis in Reading and/or a Reading Specialist endorsement?

UIU has embedded the reading or reading specialist endorsement requirements into a 36-credit Master of Education degree. You can earn your master's degree and a reading endorsement in two years or fewer taking one course per session.
